

THE FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT.

GEO. A. LEWIS, Publisher.

A WEEKLY PAPER—DEVOTED TO LOCAL AND SOCIETY NEWS.

TERMS: $1.00 In Advance

VOL. XXVIII.

FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY, SATURDAY, JAN. 21, 1905.

NO. 20

A GOOD MEETING.

We learn that the protracted meeting being conducted at the Versailles Baptist Church, in which Rev. M. B. Adams, of this city, is doing the preaching, is developing into a genuine revival. There have been quite a number of additions, and the interest has increased to such an extent that Mr. Adams will remain over until next week.

There have been fine audiences, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather of the first week.

APPOINTED POSTMASTER.

President Roosevelt appointed Col. Jos. L. Earlywine, now Assistant Postmaster at Paris, to fill the position of Postmaster at the expiration of the term of Rev. John S. Sweeney, at that place. There has been a hot fight for the place.

Mr. Earlywine is a fine orator and clever gentleman. He has filled the position of assistant postmaster very efficiently.

He is well known here, where he served as private secretary to Gov. W. O. Bradley. He is a warm friend of the ex-Governor.

FINE OPENING.

We are under obligations to Mr. Bert Miller, of Muscogee, Ind., Tery., for a copy of a paper issued there giving the advantages to be obtained by settlers in the Red Fork and Freedland Additions, to Red Fork.

That section certainly opens up wonderfully for those desiring to locate in a new country. A splendid climate, coupled with great advantages, make it in every way desirable.

(For the Roundabout.) A HOME THRUST.

In the Senate, on Tuesday, when the question of the State Capitol was under consideration, Senator George T. Farris, of Stanford, made a short, but energetic speech, in which he said that "he had always been the friend of Frankfort, but that now he was in favor of moving the capital away from Frankfort, because the people of Frankfort had permitted the defeat of Senator E. H. Taylor to the House, the man who has done more than all others to secure for Frankfort the location. He thought the people of Frankfort were too ungrateful to be honored with a capitol."

This is a home thrust that will be hard to answer.

VERITAS.

It's the little colds that grow into big colds; the big colds that end in consumption and death. Watch the little colds. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

SALE OF FINE CROP OF TOBACCO.

Mr. Louis Lea, who lives on the farm of Mr. W. J. Lewis, at Woodlake, sold his crop of tobacco, consisting of 29,690 pounds, which he raised on 15 acres of land. He received 11½ cents per pound, producing the neat little sum of $3,444.35. This was an exceptionally good crop, and well sold. It was put up in good shape.

(For the Roundabout.) MORNING TALK TO TEACHERS.

There is no pleasure more enjoyable than the happy commingling of kindred minds intent on educational thought and polite erudition. Beholding the beauty of unity in the bond of social conference, and exchanging the amusing data of the week's happenings with its pathos of heart-trials and its work-a-day earnestness. The joy, the happiness, and the experience of such a symposium is registered and recorded in the annals of each life's history, and before the bar of the heavenly teacher. Such meetings are fraught with possibilities beyond question. As Blaikie says:

"The original and proper sources of knowledge are not books but life, experience, personal thinking, feeling, and acting," and it is now wisely considered "good form" for even a teacher to show evidence of existing beyond the pale of his or her routine, and to express some interest in the current events and progress of the world's history. To be a teacher and instructor of children requires the three-fold cord of divine assistance binding anew (daily) the perfect sympathy, willingness, and consecration offered upon the altar of atonement—because to know and have understanding of the plastic child-nature, as well as to gain the love and confidence of the child heart, is a greater conquest than taking a city; and while preparing the little ones for an earthly career and the endless life is of stupendous import and should be entered upon with dedicated aim, definite purpose, and a willing ness to follow in the footsteps of the gentle teacher.

The personal influence of the teacher is confessedly the greatest power in the school room and school work. If with this we have fine teaching ability, and sound learning, so much the better, but without a decided helpful personality little will be accomplished.

Teachers need all the help possible from scientific schemes of study and pedagogics—but love and heart-power—those silent somethings by which teacher inspires the scholar to better living and loyal service to God and man—are the greatest of all blessings and attributes. Teachers may be divided into two classes, those who move and those who stand still. Those who come into the school room full of new thoughts and new ideas, set on their pupils like yeast; these are successful teachers!

Teachers need all the help possible from scientific schemes of study and pedagogics—but love and heart-power—those silent somethings by which teacher inspires the scholar to better living and loyal service to God and man—are the greatest of all blessings and attributes. Teachers may be divided into two classes, those who move and those who stand still. Those who come into the school room full of new thoughts and new ideas, set on their pupils like yeast; these are successful teachers!

Earnest endeavor with positive adaptability are important factors in this respect and the teacher who is not a student will find it a very hard task to make students of his pupils—because the really earnest teacher believes in education, and is not merely a mouth piece or a lesson hearer!

I would impress upon you the value of time. This aphorism may or may not be superfluous, but few of us really regard the voice of the shifting sands. Teach your children to observe system and order, to keep appointments, and be punctual to the minute. I never realized the importance of such advice until I went to college in Chicago and taught in the kindergartens of Galveston and Houston, Texas.

Lay the foundations of knowledge broad, deep, and towering heavenward—reverence and obedience being the chief cornerstones. Our American youth are not taught to respect the aged, and we are frequently shocked as well as mortified to hear expletives from the lips of boys that make one's flesh creep. Pardon a personal reminiscence. During my school term in Chicago, in 1903, we were obliged to do observation work, and, together with a number of students, we visited the slum district on 56 West Side.

Such abject poverty, such anarchistic temperaments, and abandonment of morals proved conclusively the fallacy of instructing those children without the broadening influence of home culture and refined environment. What shall I say of children born and reared in homes of wealth and affluence who are just as uncivilized? In Texas there are schools established for industrial pursuits where incorrigibles are taught the simple rudiments of language and who develop into citizens remarkable for integrity and industry.

In Kentucky there have been many new theories advanced in the science of a new education. Untrained systems are to be enforced—a series of uniform text-books are to be tried, tested, and taught. The march of the Metric System will be synonymous with mental progression, and in the next decade greater steps will be taken from a rational view-point. "It was stated last year in evidence before the Congressional Committee on coinage, weights and measures, by a specialist in national education, that one-twelfth of the average eight years of elementary school education in America, or about two-thirds of a year of study could be saved if the Metric System took the place of our multitudinous medley of customary weights and measures, and that the waste of money in teaching the present system to children, apart from the question of the value of the waste time to the children was $18,000,000 annually. This estimate seems a reasonable one. Manifestly, if the children could be put on the same level as the children of France, Germany and the other European countries in this respect, the assumed two-thirds of a year saved could be devoted to other things that can not now be included in the elementary school curriculum.

"Our crude and unscientific system handicaps all our citizens, in education, in thinking, in application and in computing. The very best system in the world should only be good enough for the American people to adopt."

The duties of trustees and the corresponding obligations resting on patrons and parents are component parts of a greater responsibility that shall sooner or later be decisive by imperative and positive declaration.

"The tissue of the life to be We weave with colors all our own

And in the field of destiny

We reap as we have sown."

These must be active, working bodies, subserving the purpose for which each are elected and qualified, as well as being peculiarly fitted for the supervision of effect and cause.

This paper would be altogether of two much length to touch upon the inconvenience of the present country school building despite the arrangement of desks, etc. The irregularity of play, and the disinclination for physical exercise on the part of both teacher and pupil. There are so many other questions of imperative and pertinent importance that I hesitate to even attempt enumeration.

My only commendation would be to use your sixth sense in the trust aspect, depending on your own self-reliance and individual personality to do the right as it seemed best to you.

The lessons taught by nature's laws,

Are learned beneath her radiant skies,

She questions you with ears and eyes,

And causes you to think, and pause;

As children's guide you point the way

That leads beyond this vale of tears,

A symbol of the eventful years,
The crowning sequence of today.

—N. S. COX.

NOT BUELL TAYLOR.

Mr. Ed M. Grant and Mr. George Conway, who went to Belleville, Ills., to see whether the body of the unknown young man found there was that of Mr. Buell Taylor, have returned home. They say that it was not Mr. Taylor's body, so that relieves the family distress. It was afterwards found that Mr. Taylor had not reached this country from the Philippines.

TWO FINE SERMONS.

Rev. Dr. J. F. Williams, pastor of the Versailles Baptist Church, came to this city on Sunday and preached at the First Baptist Church two strong and persuasive sermons to large and delighted audiences.

Dr. Williams is an attractive speaker and held his audiences in profound attention from the beginning to the end of each discourse.

THE "OWL CLOCK" QUILTS.

As if to add to our troubles, "Owl Clock," which has been supplying our citizens with correct time, in place of the city clock, that useful piece of mechanism, concluded to lay off, and accordingly ceased to run at 4 o'clock, on Tuesday morning.

What's the matter with having the city clock put to work? We believe there is some one paid to keep it in order.

Terrible plagues, those itching, pestering diseases of the skin. Put an end to misery. Doan's Ointment cures. At any drug store.

RECOVERED $3,500.

In the circuit court, on Tuesday, Mrs. Wm. O'Donnell, recovered judgment against the estate of Mrs. Susan McDowell, deceased, for $3,500, for services rendered as under claim of contract.

A lazy liver makes a lazy man. Burdock Blood Bitters is the natural, never failing remedy for a lazy liver.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR MAYOR.

Mr. Kenner Taylor, the junior member of the firm of E. H. Taylor, Jr. & Sons, and a present a member of the City Council from the First Ward, has announced his candidacy for the office of mayor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Mr. Taylor is well qualified for the position and is a popular and up-to-date gentleman.

The man that beats him, if any one can (which we doubt), will know he has been in a real race and no mistake.

GETS GOOD PLACE.

Mr. Pat Corbett, one of Frankfort's most accomplished "lightning jokers," has been appointed to a good place with the Western Union Telegraph Co., in Cincinnati.

SENT TO HOUSE OF REFORM.

Tom Twyman, a colored youth of incorrigible disposition, was sent to the State School of Reform, on Tuesday, for four years.

Two million Americans suffer the torturing pangs of dyspepsia. No need to. Burdock Blood Bitters cures. At any drug store.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The Legislature has been wrestling with the Capitol site question all this week. Bills were introduced providing that the location of the site should be left with the Capitol Commission, and appropriating money sufficient to pay for the site selected, with the right to condemn the land necessary under writ of ad quod damnum.

Quite a number of gentlemen were invited to, and did, address the body upon the propositions involved.

To put it briefly and in a nut shell, things are just about in the same shape they have been since the Legislature assembled. It is very likely that this body will be in session for thirty days at least, and there is no telling just what will be the outcome. "White man mighty uncertain."

GIVEN JUDGMENT.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

Mrs. H. R. Jobe, formerly of Birmingham, Ala., writes from Eldridge the same, as follows:

"It is with the greatest pleasure that I recommend Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure. I only wish that I could tell every soul how good they have done me. Last winter I had a severe attack of Grippe, which left my heart in a very bad condition. I could not lie down for the sickness, spent that whole most uncomfortable night in bed, and could not sleep. I have no trouble now with my heart and can lie on my left side for a long time. I now feel well again and am able to live a normal life. I suffered very much from nervous prostration, had tried so many remedies that I had got clear out of heart of getting anything that would help me. The nerves in my head were so affected that sometimes I would have to stop work to seem to stop altogether. It was on the advice of a lady friend that I tried your Restorative Nervine and Heart Cure, taking two doses and two bottles of Nervine and one of Heart Cure made me feel like a new person. The part is not right and my nervousness is all gone. I must say to recommend it to others afflicted as I was."

STATEMENT OF THE BUILDING COMMITTEE OF THE KING'S DAUGHTERS HOSPITAL JAN. 18, 1905.

In the last statement of the Building Committee published September 14, 1904, it was reported that four thousand three hundred and fourteen dollars and five cents ($4,314.05) had been raised. Since that time nine hundred and ninety-five dollars and twenty-five cents ($905.25) has been added to this, a total of five thousand three hundred and nine dollars and thirty cents ($5,300.30).

On November 15, 1904, the sum amounted to four thousand and eight hundred and eighty-three dollars and fifty-five cents ($4,883.55) and four thousand more was needed—as nearly as could be estimated—to complete and equip the building.

Hearing of this the W. A. Gaines Co. made a most generous offer. They agreed to donate one thousand ($1,000) as soon as the remaining three thousand ($3,000) dollars should be raised.

Four hundred and twenty-five dollars and seventy-five cents ($425.75) of this three thousand ($3,000) has since been contributed, leaving a balance of two thousand five hundred and seventy-four dollars and twenty-five cents ($2,574.25) still to be raised before this offer can be claimed.

The King's Daughters are endeavoring now to raise this amount, and they would ask those who have promised to subscribe to do so as soon as possible. Also any others who have not as yet contributed, or those having already contributed who feel they can increase their contribution, to report to any officer of the King's Daughters Circle, or any member of the Building Committee.

The following contributions have been received since the last published report:

We have had genuine winter weather lately. Sunday morning the thermometer went down to 6 degrees above zero—the coldest of the winter. Our farmers have gathered good ice this time.

We have been furnished the following, which is said to be a sure cure for frost bite or chillblains: Take equal parts of ground ginger and coriander, mix into an ointment with sweet, rich cream. Apply to the parts affected. We suspect there are a number of people who will need this remedy during this cold spell.

WALKER WHITESIDES

In Splendid Production of "David Garrick's Love" Comes to Capital Theatre Monday, January 23.

"I like my new play," said Mr. Whitesides to an interviewer as he was leaving Lyric Hall after the first rehearsal of "David Garrick's Love," "first, because it tells a simple straightforward story, without any problems to solve, and, second, because it affords wide scope for artistic acting in the role of David Garrick and splendid opportunity for fine characterizations in the other roles. When the play was read to me in London last summer I was immensely taken with it. I was of course familiar with an old comedy called 'David Garrick,' which the elder Sothern produced in this country for the first time some years ago. The same play now holds the boards occasionally, but it is quite different from my present version."

This is the eighth of the new plays I have produced. For many years I devoted myself exclusively to the production of Shakespearean tragedies; as I did not wish to become too closely identified with Shakespeare alone, for the reason that the heavy plays make too great a demand upon one's strength when played constantly season after season, I decided to join the ranks of producing actors." My first step in this direction was the production of Paul Kesters' "Cousin of The King" at the Shiller Theatre Chicago. I followed this with "Eugene Aram," in the writing of which Paul Kester and I collaborated. Then came the "Man in Black," and this was followed by "Heart and Sword." Next I produced "Robert of Sicily," and last season made an elaborate production of Gordon Kean's "We Are King." I find that the plays which appeal most to the public are those in which the story is a simple one not involving too much thought on the part of the theatre-goer. The day for immense scenic productions and countless numbers of people on the stage is quite on the wane. This class of productions was too much like a three-ring circus—they detracted from the main incidents of the play. I have known good plays to be failures in a financial way wholly on account of a superabundance of "effects" which swallowed up the real beauty of an otherwise well-told and well-acted story. We are coming to a more rational mode of presenting dramas. Managers are now striving for merely careful presentations instead of lumbering up the stage with a lot of unnecessary scenery.

"There seems to be a demand on the part of the theatregoer for more worthy acting than that which has obtained during the past eight years. Of course there never will be any appreciation of genuine artistic ability here in America. There will, however, be a more healthy appetite for good dramatic offerings. The made-to-order star is fast becoming a 'thing' of the past, and the greatest 'bung-a-boos' of the American stage, the dramatized novel, is thanks be, dead."

Mr. Walker Whiteside relates the following amusing experience bearing upon his first performance of Claude Melnotte in the Lady of Lyons.

"For a number of years I had been playing nothing but the heavy classic plays and was very desirous of appearing in something of a lighter nature. I finally decided that I would put on the Lady of Lyons, hoping that it would serve to give me a little rest now and then from the tragedies which I had been playing for so long a time. We put Lytton's love play into rehearsal and as I unfolded my interpretation of Claude Melnotte at the rehearsals I fancied that I would be rather good in the part. My management ordered a considerable amount of printing and we made elaborate preparations for the presentation of the play. Costumes were provided and new scenery painted. Our opening night was in Des Moines, Iowa. I went to the theatre early so as to be dressed long before the time for the curtain to rise that I might get myself thoroughly in harmony with my new role. As I looked at myself in the mirror, arrayed in Melnotte's first dress that of a well-to-do peasant, I had a twinge of misgiving. It seemed to me as though I resembled a Tyrolean singer. The property man brought me the small gun which Melnotte is supposed to have won at a shooting match; as I looked at it, covered with ribbons and roses, I felt somewhat foolish. Time came for my entrance with the words, 'Give me joy, good mother, I have won the prize.' Is it not handsome, this gun?" I spoke them as I rushed on the stage full of enthusiasm, holding the prize gun aloft in exultation. The people were very kind and applauded my entrance in an encouraging manner, but as the play progressed I felt very ill at ease and like the proverbial fish out of water. All the bombastic lines of Melnotte fell from my lips like so much cheap melodrama. The sentiment of the play did not appeal to me and I could take nothing seriously. However, the people in front were most generous and with their help I managed to get through the evening without the loss of my life. At the final curtain I waited for the compliments of my company, but each and every member had fled and I was left totally alone to figure out the result of my performance as best I could. The papers the following morning treated the whole gaudily affair with kind silence. I felt deeply pained and resolved that I would yet give a performance of the part that would elicit praise. Three nights after I again played the part and threw my entire energy into it. After the play I went alone into the cafe of the hotel for a bite to eat and incidentally to think over the performance. While there a gentleman stepped up to my table and introducing himself, asked if I were a member of the company that had played at the opera house that evening. I answered that I was. He praised the performance and seemed greatly delighted with Miss Wolstan's portrayal of Pauline. I waited anxiously for some word in praise of my Claude Melnotte, but he was singularly silent on this point. As he started away he said:

"Yes indeed, the play was staged beautifully; the company was splendid; the leading woman was the best Pauline I have ever seen, but the man who played Claude Melnotte ought to get his two week's notice now, he's awful!"

"It is needless to say that I did not finish the repast in front of me. No, I left the table and arousing the managerial faction of my company, sent out telegram changing the bill all along the line. I gave just two performances of Claude Melnotte and they cost me upwards of three thousand dollars. I have never had the courage to look at the scenery or costumes since."

A CASE OF IT.

Many More Like it in Frankfort.

The following case is but one of many similar occurring daily in Frankfort. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you can not ask for better proof than such a conclusive evidence. J. P. Taylor, of 304 Madison St., carpenter by trade, now retires, says: "For nigh on to thirty-five years I was subject to pain and weakness in my back. The trouble I know came from my kidneys, especially from the left one, this being the most affected. Sometimes I could scarcely rise after kneeling or stooping, and often when walking sharp pains would take me in my left side so as to nearly cause me to fall. A weakness of the kidney secretions was very annoying especially at night, and it disturbed my rest. For years at off-recurring intervals I took various medicines which all practically failed to give the promised and expected benefit. It is the recollection of these very facts which makes me so appreciate the remedy which also afforded me a genuine and lasting benefit. I refer to Doan's Kidney Pills which were procured by me at J. W. Gayle's drug store. They went right to the cause of the trouble and removed it."

"I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to my friends as a remedy that can be depended upon."

HONORED AND BELOVED CITIZEN PASSES AWAY.

On Thursday afternoon about 4 o'clock, Mr. Samuel C. Bull, Sr., after months of suffering, passed to his reward, aged 70 years.

Mr. Bull was one of our most prominent and influential citizens, always standing for the right and for higher and better things.

He came to this city when but a lad and took a position with the late beloved Mr. Wm. M. Todd, in his boot, shoe and book store, located where the business house of Messrs. R. K. McClure & Son now is.

Later on he removed to Louisville and remained a number of years. Returning to this city, he purchased the business of his former employer and remained in it until adversity overtook him and he was compelled to retire.

After a year or so of travel for a wholesale house of Louisville, in the same business, he accepted a position with R. K. McClure & Son and was with them at the time he was attacked by the illness which finally carried him away (in March last).

Mr. Bull was a gentleman in all the relations of life, and was highly esteemed for his integrity and uprightness of life, both as man and as Christian.

Shortly after his return to this city, in the 50s, he was married to Miss Jacque Page, daughter of the late Mr. Thos. S. Page, and was blessed with a large and honorable family.

For many years he had been an elder in the First Presbyterian Church, the leader of the choir and the Superintendent of the Sunday-school. In all these positions he was an exemplar of the truths he so earnestly and ardently believed.

He leaves a devoted wife and seven children (Miss Mamie Bull, of this city; Mrs. W. P. Williams, of Irvine, Ky.; Messrs. Sam C. and Wm. A. Bull, of Greenville, Miss.; Mr. Frank D. Bull, of the Mississippi River Levee Board; Rev. Edward H. Bull, of Hopkinsville, and Mr. John M. Bull, of this city), a large circle of relatives and a whole community of friends to mourn the loss of a gentle and tender husband, father and friend.

The funeral services will be conducted from the First Presbyterian Church, to-morrow (Sunday) morning at 11:00 o'clock, by his pastor and beloved friend, Rev. Dr. J. McC. Blayney, and the remains will be laid to rest by the side of his children in our cemetery.

THE POPULAR VOTE.

The nearest correct way to get the popular vote at the last Presidential election is to take the largest vote cast for electors on the respective tickets. The New York World Almanac gives the vote compiled in this way. The total, including the scattering vote, was 18,528,979. Of this total Roosevelt got 7,624,489; Parker, 5,082,754; Roosevelt over Parker, 2,541,635; Roosevelt over all, 1,729,800.

The electoral vote was divided as follows: Roosevelt, 336; Parker, 140; Roosevelt over Parker, 190.

One Minute Cough Cure
For Coughs, Colds and Croup.

For the Roundabout.
IN MEMORY OF FRANK HUNTER WHO DIED DEC. 17, 1904.

Over my soul so bright in solitude,
Sweet feelings of sadness glide;
My heart is full when ere I think
Of sweet little Frank, that died.
Soft hands of mother could not Soothe shadows o'er her heart
Began to creep
When she saw her touch of love
Was all in vain.
So death came and rocked little Frank to sleep.
Oh, death, thou lovest only the beautiful.
In the woe of her spirit that another cried.
Then the face of little Frank that died.
Ah, little white blossom so soon to decay.
Sweet leaves of a laughter so quietly hushed Gone to bloom in God's garden for ever and aye.
Those delicate petals here on earth so lightly crushed.
Little white sail on an endless sea,
Drifted far away with the silvery tide.
Left mother straining her eyes for a glimpse Of thee, sweet little Frank, that died.
Little bright star, set in thy home
In the skies.
Shine, thou, forever from God's right hand,
Thy love will never know no bright day.
Give light unto bowed souls in this lower land.
Roaming forever on the banks of the river of peace, Bathing with the angels in its blissful tide.
So one of the sweetest joys of Heaven, I know
Is sweet little Frank Hunter that died.

AUNTIE.

For the Roundabout.
A LESSON.

How careless are we, whom the Angel of Death
Has passed many years in his flight.
How careless of word, of sharp spoken word.
How careless to wound and to slight.

But at length the hand falls—a dear one is gone
Gone forever, without warning, in health.
He leaves us one moment all full of life
To be brought back in the arms of death.

At first we feel nothing, a numbness indeed

And slowly our minds can not know what

Until we've had time to think o'er the change that has come,

Then, Oh! the regret that we never can show.

Oh! for the power to recall the harsh words

Though only by lips they've been said

Never seen its too late, neither sorrow nor joy

Can be felt by those who are dead.

But what a lesson to those that still live

Amid sorrow and trouble and strife

We can every day, by a kind sweet word,

Brightened some disconsolate life.

And if we have learned through this loved one's death

The sin and the wrong of our life

If we've learned to brighten by word or deed

Some one o'erburdened with strife.

We should thank Him, the giver of all.

That a just one was sent for from the great high.

And by loving and helping and giving

We shall meet him again by and by.

ROSE CAPLINGER BACON.

"DO IT TO-DAY."

The time worn injunction,
"Never put off till tomorrow what you can do to-day," is generally presented in this form; "Do it to-day!" That is the terse advice we want to give you about that coughing or demoralizing cold with which you have been afflicted, or the various diseases which may afflict you.

Take some reliable remedy for it to-day—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and it continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread-consumption has attacked your lungs, Dr. Boschee's German Syrup will effect a cure, as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial

PEA RIDGE.

Letters received here from Miss Daisy Stoops and Dyke Stoops, of Kansas, say that the weather has not been very cold yet; describe numerous parties they have attended this winter, and that the peach trees they set out when they left here, three years ago, are growing rapidly and all doing well. Miss Daisy and brother Dyke are the infant heirs of the late Finley Stoops, and still have an interest in their father's property here, which not of course, be settled until they come of age in 1906 and 1909.

Miss Edith Edge and her brother, Frank, went to New Albany Monday to visit their sister, Mrs. Frank Stoops.

Whether intentional or not, a writer in the Youth's Companion draws a very pleasing picture of an officer with many good qualities that strongly resembles the sheriff of Franklin, and while only a sheriff is mentioned, it is evident the writer is well acquainted with our county superintendent, judge and jailer, when he tells how they worked against a malicious miscreant who tried to have a boy sent to jail, but read "John Imberly."

If, instead of adopting the Australian ballot law (about which there is much complaint), the Australian land law had been adopted it would have saved lots of trouble. Stripped of trifles, such as fees, time and place of paying, etc., the Australian law is all land is held from the State. Smith wishing to sell his land to Jones does not make a deed to Jones. He merely turns his title back into the State land office, receives the amount agreed upon from Jones, and the State conveys the land to Jones. Jones does the same when he sells to Brown, surrenders his title to State and Brown, gets his title direct from the State. So there is never any need to search a lot of old deeds to prove title.

"DAVID HARUM."

One of the reigning successes of the past two seasons has been "David Harum," which is to be presented at the Capital Theatre in the near future.

The play, as every one knows, is a dramatization of Westcott's novel and reporter credits it with being the best of all the works transplanted from between the covers of a book to the stage in the absolute faithfulness with which it reproduces its scenes and characters. Every one who has ever had a whiff of new mown hay or lived within sound of the cow bells in the country, can not help but like this play. Though its scenes are laid in a country town, however, it is not like other country plays. It possesses no suffering, weeping heroine, no bold, detestable villain, neither does it deal with a story that is in any way suggestive. It is clean and wholesome, bright and cheerful in its treatment, and sparkles with quaint philosophy and rugged epigrams. Its adherence to nature is said to be responsible for its great success. Some one who greatly appreciated Westcott's work said that "David Harum" was the greatest and best-known character in American fiction of recent years, and the critics have repeatedly asserted the same thing about the old fellow who held that a man "might be straighter'n a string in most things and yet never tell the hull thing about a hoss."

WE ARE ALL FAMILIAR

With the deep, hoarse bark, grimly called "a graveyard cough." It is the cry of the tormented lungs for mercy. Give them mercy in the form of Allen's Lung Balsam, remedy for pulmonary trouble, so highly esteemed that it is recommended even in the earlier stages of consumption. In the later stages mortal skill is unavailable. No body can afford to neglect a cold,

JACKSONVILLE.

Our town is on a boom.

Mr. George Montgomery has opened a store again at this place, with a good line of goods, where he hopes to meet his friends.

Mr. W. B. Hayden has moved into his new house. Guess Billy contemplates having a new cook soon.

Mr. Leroy Johnson is looking forward to and wishing for the time to soon come when his son, Vernon Clay, will enter the mercantile business as full partner with him. Guess it wont be long until the sign will read Leroy & Vernon Clay Johnson, Merchants.

Mr. Harry Lee, wife and family, of Lebanon Ridge, were the guests of Mr. Reuben Stivers Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Fabrion Pool and wife, of Finchville, were the guests of Mr. J. P. Bright and family the first of the week, remaining several days.

Mr. Thomas Haggard was the guest of friends here this week.

Mr. C. W. Perkins has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. John Harrod, in the Burg vicinity the past week.

Miss Clay Perkins, of Harvie-land, is visiting her uncle, Mr. C. W. Perkins, and family.

Mr. Arthur Moore, wife and son, Loney, visited his uncle, Mr. Cal Green, of Scott county, the past week.

Mr. Ike Moore and family will leave for the Creek Nation and Territory in a short time to locate there. He visited the past fall and selected a situation, and will return now to make his home there.

Mr. John Barnett and wife, of Highland Park, returned to their home in a few days ago after a several days' visit to her parents, Mr. W. B. and Mrs. Bettie Moore, this community.

Mrs. Leroy Johnson, who has been ill for a few days, is better.

Misses Audie and Ada Bright are spending a few days with their sister, Mrs. Annie Pool, of Finchville.

We learn Mr. Dennis Cook contemplated visiting the Territory with Mr. Ike Moore, with the intention of locating there. Success to the effort. May prosperity attend him is our wish.

We are sorry to report Mr. Pleasant Mitchell, of Defoe, who conducts a country store at Scrab-ble, is very ill with typhoid pneumonia, at his home.

We join in with many others in praising the Roundabout for its promptness, unselfishness and impartial news contained in its columns weekly. We have been a constant reader of this paper for the past twelve or fifteen years, and we would miss its weekly visits fully as much as we would our daily meals. Long may it continue to live and prosper, is our wish.

Also, in this sale will go everything in winter goods in our own stock which we do not wish to carry over to another season.
